Profile

I'm on a mission to combine arts and sciences. My creative nature provides a unique approach to math-based subjects and my ability to communicate transforms the technical into the comprehensible. I'm a dedicated individual that refuses to settle for mediocrity or anything less than the fullest potential. My previous experience with becoming a prima ballerina, an employed student and a Californian nanny has allowed me to grow beyond expectations and transform dreams into reality. I also get asked if I'm lucky (courtesy of my last name) and I've mastered some exceptionally witty comebacks.
